

IUPUI NEXT GENERATION 2.0

2022-23 Faculty and Staff Leadership Development Program
Extended Application Deadline: Sunday, March 12, 2023, 11:59 p.m.

Program Overview

The IUPUI Next Generation 2.0 program is a 9-month (September-May) leadership development program dedicated to the preparation of women and underrepresented faculty and staff for positions of leadership and opportunities for advancement in higher education. This program builds upon the successes of an earlier program (Next Generation @ IUPUI), implemented on the campus in 2009 with the aim of addressing the need for IUPUI to retain and develop a diverse pool of talent to lead the institution into the future.

Purpose

IUPUI Next Generation 2.0 seeks to address the need for institutional leadership succession planning and for increasing diversity among administrative ranks. Currently, on the IUPUI campus, only limited numbers of women and persons from underrepresented minority groups are employed among the ranks of mid-level and upper administration. This program directly addresses campus Strategic Plan goals to "develop our faculty and staff" and to "promote an inclusive campus climate."

Participants

IUPUI Next Generation 2.0 is designed for mid-career faculty and staff identified as emerging and established leaders seeking leadership and advancement opportunities or professional development to enhance their current roles.

Program participants will be guided through a curriculum designed to assist them with transitioning into leadership positions, while engaged in their current professional lives. Participants will also have the opportunity to identify, plan, and implement a capstone project that responds to an identified need of their department, the IUPUI campus or the Indianapolis community. Selected participants should expect to attend a two-hour orientation session in August 2023 and the program one Friday of the month between September 2023 and May 2024 (9am-3pm) on the IUPUI campus.

Curriculum

Participants will engage in a curriculum that will prepare them to step into and/or create leadership opportunities in their units and schools. Curricular subject areas will include: the contemporary higher education environment, self-assessment, planning and leading change, managing strategic resources, diversity and cultural competency, higher education finance, conflict management and negotiation, and ethical leadership, among others.

How to apply

Applications will be accepted either through nomination or self-nomination. A complete application includes:

- The online application form
- Candidate statement
- Current CV or resume (maximum 5 pages)
- Letter of support from dean, chair or supervising administrator

The online application with attachments must be completed and received by Sunday, March 12, 2023, 11:59 p.m. EST. The form is available at this link. Selected participants will be notified by the week of April 24, 2023.

Cost

The cost of the Next Gen program to the unit is $1500 with a match provided by the Office of Academic Affairs.
